

Aesop's Fables Summary

A boy named Billy climbs to the top of "Mt. Fictitious" on the island of Samos, Greece, as we begin our Aesop's Fable adventure! Billy has ventured out alone among the famous statues on this historic mount. His journey of curiosity leads to a startling conversation with Aesop's statue, which has magically come to life, and the storytelling begins.

Billy is completely startled as puppets and animals begin acting out the following fables: "The North Wind and the Sun," "The Fox and Grapes," "The Tortoise and the Hare," "The Fox and the Crow," and "The Boy Who Cried Wolf"! While the moral of each story remains the same, clever techniques are used to enhance the presentation.

The Children's Theatre will tickle your funny bone as it puts a little twist on these tales. Wait until you see a rabbit wearing "Hare-Jordans" in "The Tortoise and the Hare"! While watching the fable of "The Fox and the Grapes," be prepared to meet grapes that have NAMES! Imagine----"Chablis," "Chianti," and "Chardonnay"!

The Children's Theatre held a contest to find an original fable to produce on stage. This year a fable was chosen written by Amanda Weiglein of Nagle Middle School. Her fable, "The Bee and the Bear" will be produced onstage as part of Aesop's Fables!
